In line with his sustained personal investment in international sport and peace and among other various positions, he also holds the positions of Chairman of the THF's Board of Trustees and Honorary President of the World Taekwondo Peace Corps (TPC).

He also holds various professor positions at Renmin University, Beijing Shichahai Sports School, De La Salle University, Moscow State University and Beijing Forestry University.

Born on 20 December 1947, Choue holds a bachelor's degree in economics from Kyung Hee University, and continued his education in international politics, obtaining a master's degree from Fairleigh Dickinson University and a PhD from the Katholieke Universiteit Leuven.

Ms Anne Hidalgo

In 2014, Anne Hidalgo became the first woman to be elected as Mayor of Paris.

She started her career as a labour inspector, and has been a member of the socialist party since 1994, serving as national Secretary for Culture and Media, later in charge of vocational training.

From 1997 to 2002, she worked as an adviser in three ministers' cabinets in Lionel Jospin's government. She served as Paris' First Deputy Mayor under Mayor Bertrand Delanoë for 13 years, and led the Parisian left coalition to victory in 2004 and 2010.

As Mayor, Hidalgo implements an active policy, focusing on social inclusiveness, sustainable development, climate change, air quality, solidarity, innovation and civic participation – central elements for the future of Paris. The first Vice-President of the Greater Paris Metropolis, she was elected in 2016 as Chair of the C40 Cities Leadership Group, which consists of 90 megacities committed to fighting climate change. As the Mayor of Paris, she is also the President of the Francophone Mayors International Association (AIMF) and Co-Chair of United Cities and Local Governments (CGLU), for which she chairs the gender equality commission.

Born in Spain, Hidalgo holds a master's in advanced studies in social law and has penned several political essays.

Born on 26 April 1951, Yu has a bachelor's degree from Nankai University.

Ms Felicite Rwemarika

Felicite Rwemarika was appointed as an IOC member in October 2018.

Rwemarika has devoted her life to helping women and girls in different areas, particularly sport. As well as founding the Association of Kigali Women in Sports (AKWOS), she fought for the creation of a national council for women in sport in Rwanda.

She has been a Board member of the international women's organisation "Women Win" (2007-2011); Chair of the Women's Football Commission in the Rwandan Football Federation (FERWAF) (2017-2018); Chair of the Rwanda Women and Sports Commission (2013-); Country Coordinator (2004-2008) then Chair (2009-) of "We Act for Hope" NGO; and Chair of the Rwanda NGO forum on HIV & AIDS and Health Promotion (2015-). In light of these achievements, Rwemarika received the IOC Award for Women and Sport on the African continent in 2016.

Born on 9 March 1958 in Rwanda, Rwemarika holds a diploma in medical nursing from the Mulago Hospital in Uganda (1985) as well as a diploma in business administration, (2007). She has worked as a medical nurse in Uganda (1985-1995) and is the founder of two businesses – a beauty salon and a restaurant (1997-2004) in Rwanda.

Ms Josefina Salas

Josefina Salas is a Youth Olympic Games Young Change-Maker from Chile. She started practising a wide variety of sports at a young age, including Alpine skiing, which ultimately became her passion. In 2010, Salas joined the Chilean national Alpine skiing team.

Unfortunately, repeated knee surgeries forced her to retire from competitive sport in 2013. She then decided to study engineering at the Pontifical Catholic University of Chile and found new ways to continue to be involved in sport and education.

As soon as she was cleared for recreational skiing, Salas started coaching kids at Ski Club La Parva, where she later held the position of General Manager. Her appointment as a Young Change-Maker for Chile at the Youth Olympic Games Lillehammer 2016 was a life-changing experience, which gave her the tools to make a greater impact through sport by developing her Young Ambassador+ programme together with a group of student athletes from her university.

Born in 1994, she has graduated in industrial transportation engineering in 2018.
